2013 Annual Conference
- Rutgers University -
College Avenue Campus, New Brunswick, New Jersey
October 11-13, 2013

Keynote Speaker, Jerome Cohen
Professor of Law at NYU, a leading promoter of human rights and the role of law in East Asia; played a key role in securing the freedom of Chinese civil rights activist Chen Guangcheng

Deadlines:
Proposals for Panels - March 1
Proposals for Papers - May 1
Send to AACS2013@gmail.com

American Association for Chinese Studies
North Academic Center 4/166
The City College - CUNY
Convent Avenue and 138 Street
New York, NY 10031

American Association for Chinese Studies
全美中國研究協會

Join TODAY!!
Yearly Membership includes:
- American Journal of Chinese Studies
- AACS Newsletter

AACS is America’s only interdisciplinary society devoted to the study of China.

For more info, go to aacs.ccny.cuny.edu

See you at Rutgers!!

Bloustein School of Planning and Public Policy
For more than 50 years, AACS has been bringing together China specialists to share their ideas, learn from one another, and create a community of scholars. Our mission is to promote the study of China in all disciplines, at all stages of their careers, and at all types of institutions with opportunities to present their work and interact with colleagues.

The organization is committed to providing China and communities throughout the world.

For more than 50 years, AACS has been bringing together China specialists to share their ideas, learn from one another, and create a community of scholars. Our mission is to promote the study of China in all disciplines, at all stages of their careers, and at all types of institutions with opportunities to present their work and interact with colleagues.

Our membership dues and conference registration fees are low, and we select our conference venues within an eye to affordability. We especially encourage graduate students, junior scholars, and scholars whose institutions offer limited opportunities for scholarly activity to submit their work and attend the conference.

Join us for this exciting conference! - American Journal of Chinese Studies - AACS Newsletter

AACS is America’s only interdisciplinary society devoted to the study of China.